BOTTLE BLOWING

Machine in Successful Operation at the Plant

OF THE NEWARK MACHINE BOTTLE COMPANY

It Produces 12 Finished Bottles Per Minute.

One of the Most Remarkable Inventions of Modern Times—Machine Here Is the Only One in Operation Aside From the Plant Where the Inventor Did His Great Work.

A gigantic mechanism working with almost diabolical intelligence, a machine that Dennis Hayes declares is "not a machine, but a miracle," is now in successful operation at what to the majority of people is known as the Everett company's plant, but which is technically and properly the plant of the Newark Machine Bottle company. This is the bottle blowing machine, whose inventor is M. J. Owen of Toledo.

After years of labor, and days and nights of intense thought there was evolved from the brain of the inventor one of the most marvelous instruments ever conceived by man. It is destined to be an epoch maker in the industrial world.

Monday forenoon a couple of representatives of the Advocate visited the plant where the only apparatus of its kind is in existence, outside of the plant where the inventor has produced this wonder. One hour of study of this machine cannot avail to enable one not versed in the technique of the craft to give an intelligent description of it. It baffles description and comprehension at the hands of any such observer, no matter how acute and rapid his mental processes. Suffice it to say that this machine produces 12 finished bottles per minute, 726 every hour, and in a working day of eight hours, 5760 bottles. The bottles are of absolute equality in finish, weight and capacity. There are no blisters, no rough or jagged edges. The work is perfect in every respect. The machine will probably be in full operation all summer.

ONE THOUSAND LIVES

Lost as The Result of a Cloudburst in Guanajuato, Mexico—Water Twenty Feet Deep in the Principal Streets Soon After the Deluge Began.

Mexico, July 3.—It is estimated that 1,000 lives were lost as a result of a cloudburst at Guanajuato yesterday. The cloudburst occurred in the southern part of the city, flooding all the principal streets. The Plaza del Cantador was six feet under water. In some streets the water was 20 feet deep. Some of the mines were partially flooded. The town of Marfil, the terminus of the railroad, just below Guanajuato was completely wiped out. A Mexican Central north-bound passenger train ran into a washout just north of Irapuato. It was derailed and some coaches are under water. President Robinson of the railroad, says some lives were lost, but cannot tell how many.

It is believed here that La Olla dam was destroyed. The spur of the Mexican Central railroad is washed out, making it impossible to run a train. The only way to reach there is by muleback. The Federal telegraph has a wire working through the Guanajuato office, but can get no word from there, leading to the belief that the operators lost their lives.

A dispatch from the Mexican Central Superintendent to President Robinson says the water is three feet deep in the second story of the Union Hotel, the best at Guanajuato. The street car line from Marfil to Guanajuato is completely destroyed. It will be unable to resume operations inside of a month. During the past few years an immense amount of American and British capital has been invested at Guanajuato. The office of the Furness company is under water above the sill of the second story windows, and later the building collapsed. This is the leading company there and is influential in inducing the investment of foreign capital.

NEWARK GREETES THE CARNIVAL.

CHANGE WILL BE GRADUAL.

In reference to the machine made bottles now being turned out in this city the Advocate made somewhat of an investigation with the result that it has every appearance of not being such a disturber of existing conditions as was at one time apprehended and might have been the case had the advent of the labor saving devices, such as sewing machine, shoe machines, typesetting machines, cotton gins, bottle blowing machines, etc., that an unseen power appeared to adapt to the fitness of things.

Again, it is apparent that one of the reasons for the lack of panicky feeling, or a disturbed or discontented feeling among those that might possibly be affected, is that the Ohio Bottle company has control of the selling of the bottles manufactured by this machine, for not only is the firm recognized for its conservatism, but also from the fact that it has and intends to Revolt in Other Parts of the Muscovite Monarchy Is General and the Situation Grows More and More Serious—Cossacks Called Out To Suppress Rioting In Suppress Riots.

Berlin, July 3.—According to the Berliner Tageblatt the Russian government has requested the Powers which maintain warships at Constantinople to send them to Odessa to restore order. The Powers concerned are England, France, Germany, Austria and Italy. The humiliation of having to make such an appeal to foreign powers admits the desperate situation at Odessa.

WANT KAISER'S SON FOR THEIR EMPEROR

Berlin, July 3.—A petition signed by 500 Norwegian girls between the ages of 15 and 18 has been sent to the Kaiser asking him to allow one of his younger sons to become king of Norway.

In case the Kaiser is unwilling to grant this request the petition begs him not to use his influence against Norway or to boycott the country personally but to make his customary summer trip to the Norwegian fjords. The petition is quietly worded and has given the Kaiser much amusement. No reply will be sent for political reasons.

TREATY OF PEACE

Japan and Russia Name Their Plenipotentiaries

WITH POWER TO ACT

Formal Announcement of Decision of Czar

And the Mikado Has Been Made Public By President Roosevelt Negotiations For an Armistice Are Now Under Way—Envoys Have Been Selected.

Oyster Bay, N. Y., July 3.—President Roosevelt made official announcement of the names of Japanese and Russian plenipotentiaries to the Washington peace conference. The character and ability of the men selected by both belligerents is an earnest of the desire of their respective governments to conclude, if possible the grim tragedy in the far east. The plenipotentiaries are: Russian, Ambassador Muraviev, formerly minister of justice and now ambassador to Italy, and Baron Rosen, recently appointed as ambassador to the United States to succeed Count Cassini; Japanese, Baron Komura, minister of foreign affairs, and Kogoro Takahira, minister to the United States.

The president's announcement practically concludes the preliminary negotiations for peace. Minor details remain yet to be arranged, but the conference now seems to be assured. While no absolute date for the meeting of the envoys has been fixed, it

STRIKE IS GENERAL.

London, July 3.—A dispatch today by the Reuters Telegram company from St. Petersburg, says a general strike has begun there and that the workmen of all the trades have joined the movement. Work on the city is at a complete standstill.

ODESSA IS SILENT.

Odessa, Russia, July 3.—The city continues to be quiet under the strong guard of the troops called out during the recent anarchy and riots. A number of foreign steamships which were in the port have loaded their cargo and are preparing to resume their sailing. The troops still patrol the streets and prohibit admission to the dock region. Work was resumed this morning in some quarters.

STRICT CENSORSHIP.

St. Petersburg, July 3.—A censorship like that which existed in former days has now been established over all communications being sent to Southern Russia. Letters addressed to Odessa and Sevastopol even to official officials, are being opened, and no telegrams are allowed to pass, no matter how innocent their nature. Everyone here is awaiting authentic information as to just what has happened at Odessa with the keenest interest.

News is now being circulated to the effect that there has been a general mutiny among the sailors of the Black Sea fleet. General Trepoff, new assistant minister of the interior is taking the strictest precautionary measures to prevent the efforts of the revolutionary leaders to start a general uprising in connection with the present mutiny. A watch is being kept on all the known leaders of the revolutionary movement by swarms of detectives. They have been warned that if they hold a meeting of any kind they will be arrested and thrown into prison immediately. Gen. Trepoff has the situation well in hand for the present.

MUTINEERS FIRM.

Kastienki, Roumania, July 3.—Following the arrival of the Kniaz Potemkin and the torpedo boat accompanying her, in this port last night, the port captain boarded the vessels and demanded that the mutineers should land without arms, to be dealt with as foreign deserters. The port captain warned the mutinous crew that if the Kniaz Potemkin displayed hostility toward the town, force would be employed by Roumania and that warships would be sent against the Russian vessel.

The mutineers replied that they had no intention of threatening the town and only wanted to buy provisions. They were allowed to land later for this purpose. The sailors on the Kniaz Potemkin say the Black Sea fleet made no attempt to capture the mutinous vessels and the crews on the other warships openly rejoiced when the Potemkin left Odessa.

NEW MAD MULLAH.

Lahore, India, July 3.—A new Mad Mullah named Gid Mullah has proclaimed a holy war against the English and has detailed forty subordinate mullahs to go through the Mohammedan territory to urge the inhabitants to rise against the British and drive them out of the country.

DIVIDED TO DEATH.

Circleville, O., July 3.—H. M. Davis, a young married man, was drowned in Big Walnut creek yesterday afternoon. He said, with a laugh, to his companions across the creek, "I will live and come up where you are," and plunged in. He never resurfaced. His body was secured by Clyde Dierbeck.

FUNERAL OF HAY

In City of Cleveland Will be Attended by Roosevelt

BODY ARRIVED TODAY

The Chamber of Commerce Has Charge.

Chief Magistrate of the Nation Issues Proclamation Announcing Death of the Late Secretary of State—Roosevelt and Members of the Cabinet Arrive Wednesday.

Cleveland, O., July 3.—Secretary of State John Hay's remains were borne to this city by a special train which arrived from Newbury, N. H., before 8 o'clock a. m. today. The funeral party consisted of Mrs. Hay, the widow; Clarence Hay, Charles Scudder of Boston, who attended Secretary Hay during his last illness; Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Mather of Cleveland, the latter a sister of Mrs. Hay, and S. A. Raymond, also a relative of Mrs. Hay. Mrs. Hay and Clarence Hay stood the trying ordeal bravely, although they showed plainly the effects of the strain which they had been under.

In response to an invitation from the officers of the Cleveland chamber of commerce, the body of the secretary will repose in the Chamber of Commerce building until the hour of the funeral on Wednesday. The body will not lie in state. While here Mrs. Hay and Clarence Hay will be the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Mather. The funeral services will be conducted in the Wade Memorial chapel Wednesday by Rev. Hiram C. Hayden, pastor of the Old Stone church, which Mr. Hay attended in Cleveland, and he will be assisted by Rev. Dr. Eunice Hamlin, pastor of the Church of the Covenant in Washington.

When the train passed through the suburb of Glenville, five miles from the city, the funeral car and the private car in which the members of the Hay family traveled were placed on a sidetrack until 10 o'clock, when they were brought into the city proper. At the depot the funeral train was met by a committee of 12 prominent citizens of Cleveland—Ambrose Swasey, Mayor Tom L. Johnson, F. F. Prentiss, Charles W. Bingham, General George A. Garrelson, H. R. Hatch, James H. Hoyt, W. G. Mather, E. R. Perkins, S. A. Raymond, Emory C. Rouse and Judge Charles H. Stone. The escort was furnished by Troop A of the Ohio National Guard, of which Secretary Hay was a charter member, under the command of Captain William Schofield. The casket was carried by former sergeants of Troop A to the funeral car, and as soon as the escort had taken its place was driven directly to the chamber of commerce.

President Roosevelt and the members of the cabinet are expected to arrive at 10 o'clock Wednesday morning, at about the time set for the funeral cortege to leave the chamber of commerce for the cemetery. Inasmuch as the members of the cabinet are expected to act as the honorary pallbearers, it is generally expected that the president and the members of his party will participate in the funeral cortege.

STEPPED ON TRACK AND WAS KILLED

Chicago, July 3.—Lee Reynolds, a nine-year-old boy of Whiting, Ind., was instantly killed, and Mrs. Rose Manning and Mrs. Charles Brown of Chicago, were severely injured in an accident Sunday on the scenic railway at the White City Amusement Park. The accident is believed to have been caused by a piece of brick that in some unaccountable manner had become lodged on one of the rails. When the car in which young Reynolds and the two women were riding struck the obstruction, the car was derailed and the occupants were thrown out. Reynolds, who was not severely injured, rose to his feet and stepped back on the track in the path of another car, and was instantly killed. The two women, although severely injured, will recover.

ROOSEVELT'S IDEAL.

Lima, O., July 3.—By the arrival of a train at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Michael Keefe in this city, the son now serves a family modeled in conformity to President Roosevelt's ideal of the American citizen. Though married for 17 years, Mrs. Keefe is the mother of 12 children, the ages of her offspring ranging from two days to 18 years.

FOR CONVENTION ON IMMIGRATION

CALL HAS BEEN ISSUED BY THE NATIONAL CIVIC FEDERATION.

THE PROPER DISTRIBUTION OF ALIENS WILL BE THE THEME OF THE DISCUSSION.

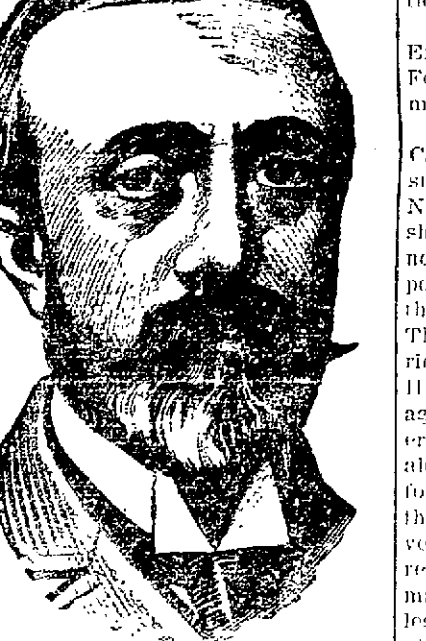

New York, July 3.—The members of the Executive Committee of the National Civic Federation held a meeting Saturday at the offices of the Federation, and called a convention to be held in this city on September 25 and 27, for the purpose of discussing distribution of immigrants.

It was the consensus of the meeting that the prevailing idea that too many immigrants were arriving and that they became a burden upon this country has not been proved by facts. It was asserted on the contrary, that the immigrants who arrive succeed in finding employment and look after themselves.

The convention of the National Federation is the outcome of the conference which took place recently under the auspices of the New York Civic Federation. At that meeting it was decided to appeal to the national body to bring about a general discussion by leading citizens all over the country on the situation.

The National Federation decided to invite the Governors of various States to send delegates to the convention. Prominent societies all over the country that are interested in immigration will also send delegates to the convention.

Ralph M. Easley, chairman of the Executive Committee of the Civic Federation issued the following statement: "The whole country, from Maine to California, has been stirred by the statistics given at the meeting of the New York Civic Federation, which showed not only that immigration was not increasing in proportion to the population, but also that 95 per cent of the immigrants were desirable people. The chairman of the new Board of Agriculture, recently appointed by Gov. Higgins, visited Ellis Island two days ago and told Immigration Commissioner Watchman that in New York state alone there are 12,966 farms lying idle for the want of people to cultivate them. When the subject is thoroughly ventilated at the coming convention recommendations probably will be made in the way of suggesting special legislation for the proper distribution of immigrants. Every day statistics from official and reliable sources appear to show that the figures as to the number of immigrants who come here do not indicate the actual relation of the new arrivals to the population. The latest statistics from the Immigration Department show that during last year the number of Italian immigrants who left their country exceeded by 8,000 those who came here."

has been determined that the first session will be held in Washington about the first of August. Baron Rosen already is en route to the United States, his coming being to succeed Count Cassini as the Russian ambassador to this country.

A day or two ago the Russian and Japanese governments formally communicated to President Roosevelt the names of the plenipotentiaries they respectively had selected. Acting as an intermediary, the president communicated the names of the Japanese envoys to the St. Petersburg government and those of the Russian representatives to the government at Tokyo. Having received from both governments assurances that the selections were satisfactory, the president, according to his agreement with the belligerents, authorized public announcement of the envoys. Some delay was occasioned in the selection of the plenipotentiaries by the insistence of Japan that the envoys of both governments be clothed with full power to conclude peace and to negotiate a permanent treaty. The Japanese government indicated pointedly that the emperor would not permit his envoys to enter upon a tentative conference in which Japan was to define its terms and then let Russia decide whether the conference should proceed with their deliberations. The Tokyo government insisted that the plenipotentiaries should have conferred on them ratifying powers, and that the negotiations should be entered upon in a spirit of perfect sincerity. Finally, the position taken by President Roosevelt, the understanding that only by clothing the envoys with ample authority to act for their respective governments could a lasting peace be achieved. He strongly urged the St. Petersburg government to accept of what was regarded as a reasonable proposition of Japan. That it was successful in his presentation of the latter to the Russian emperor is indicated clearly in the statement which he has issued.

The Remorse of "Windmill" Kenny

A Fourth of July Story
By HOWARD FIELDING

I HAD been dressing the burned fingers of patriotic youngsters all day long, but a little past 5 I received a much more notable patient, no less a personage, indeed, than John—otherwise known as "Windmill"—Kenny, the able pitcher of our local ball team. Kenny was a big, strapping, handsome fellow, born of poor parents and reared haphazard, but he came to my office intimately and affectionately attended by Clinton Stoddard, son of the richest man in our town. Such is the democracy of the national game.

Both the young men were in uniform and bore the stains of recent conflict. There had been a great match that day, an international affair, indeed, for "me and viewed him with a new interest when we returned to the office. He had not moved since he first dropped into the chair that I had placed for him. He still stared as if he saw a ghost, and when I began to repair his damaged nose he bore the pain with incredible indifference. But when my task was done and Stoddard had gone home to change his clothes I remarked a change in my patient's manner. He became restless and from time to time uttered half suppressed groans.

"Are you in pain?" I asked at last. He shook his head.

Now, it was not in reason that so hardy a fellow should be so deeply affected by a mere physical injury. Obviously there must be another explanation, and suddenly it occurred to me to ask, "Did you lose the game?"

Kenny sat up and stared at me. He seemed about to speak, but changed his mind and lay down again. There was a silence, and then, while I was framing another question, he surprised me by a burst of confidence.

"Doctor," said he, "I'm going to tell you all about it."

"Something on your mind?" said I.

"You'll think I'm batty," said he at last. "What do I want to tell you for? Well, I'd like to tell the whole crowd; that's the way I feel about it. I'd do it, too, only—"

"Only what?"

"Why, it's like this—if I should say to the gang 'I threw that game,' they'd naturally want to know what I did it for, and I couldn't tell 'em."

I was horrified and yet incredulous. To "throw" a game—that is, to betray your own side and give the victory to your opponents—is a peculiarly detestable form of treachery.

"Threw it?" I echoed. "What do you mean?"

"There was a girl in the grand stand," said he. "So far as I was concerned there wasn't anybody else there—just her. And there was a man on the Kingston nine, a big fine looking fellow. Well, I might as well tell you who he was because you'll find out from the papers tomorrow. His name is Worthington, he played third base, and he put up a good game too. He came to the bat in the second inning and made a hit, and it let in a run. They'd got a man around to third on an error and two outs.

"Between innings a fellow said to me, 'Do you know who that is that made the hit?' And I asked him what he meant. 'Why,' says he, 'that's the son of old Worthington, the millionaire. One of the richest men in Kingston. He's engaged to—' Well, never mind her name—the girl. The fellow says I. 'How do you know?' 'Oh, that's what they say,' says he.

"Now, you understand, that young lady is nothing to me, and never can be. She's as far above me as a star in the sky, and you rely look at a star till your head swims, but you'll never get any nearer to it. Still, a man has natural feelings.

"Well, Worthington came to bat again in the fifth, and he cut three slits in the air. I'd have fanned him if he'd been Hans Wagner of the Pittsburghs. And when he came up in the seventh I fanned him again.

"The fact is, I never was as good in my life before as I was this afternoon. I could put 'em just where I wanted to, and every curve broke exactly right. Perhaps I was keyed up to it. Having these blasted Englishmen come over here to do us up on the Fourth of July was enough to give a man an extra pound of steam. Then there was the girl—well, well; it's all done now and can't be helped.

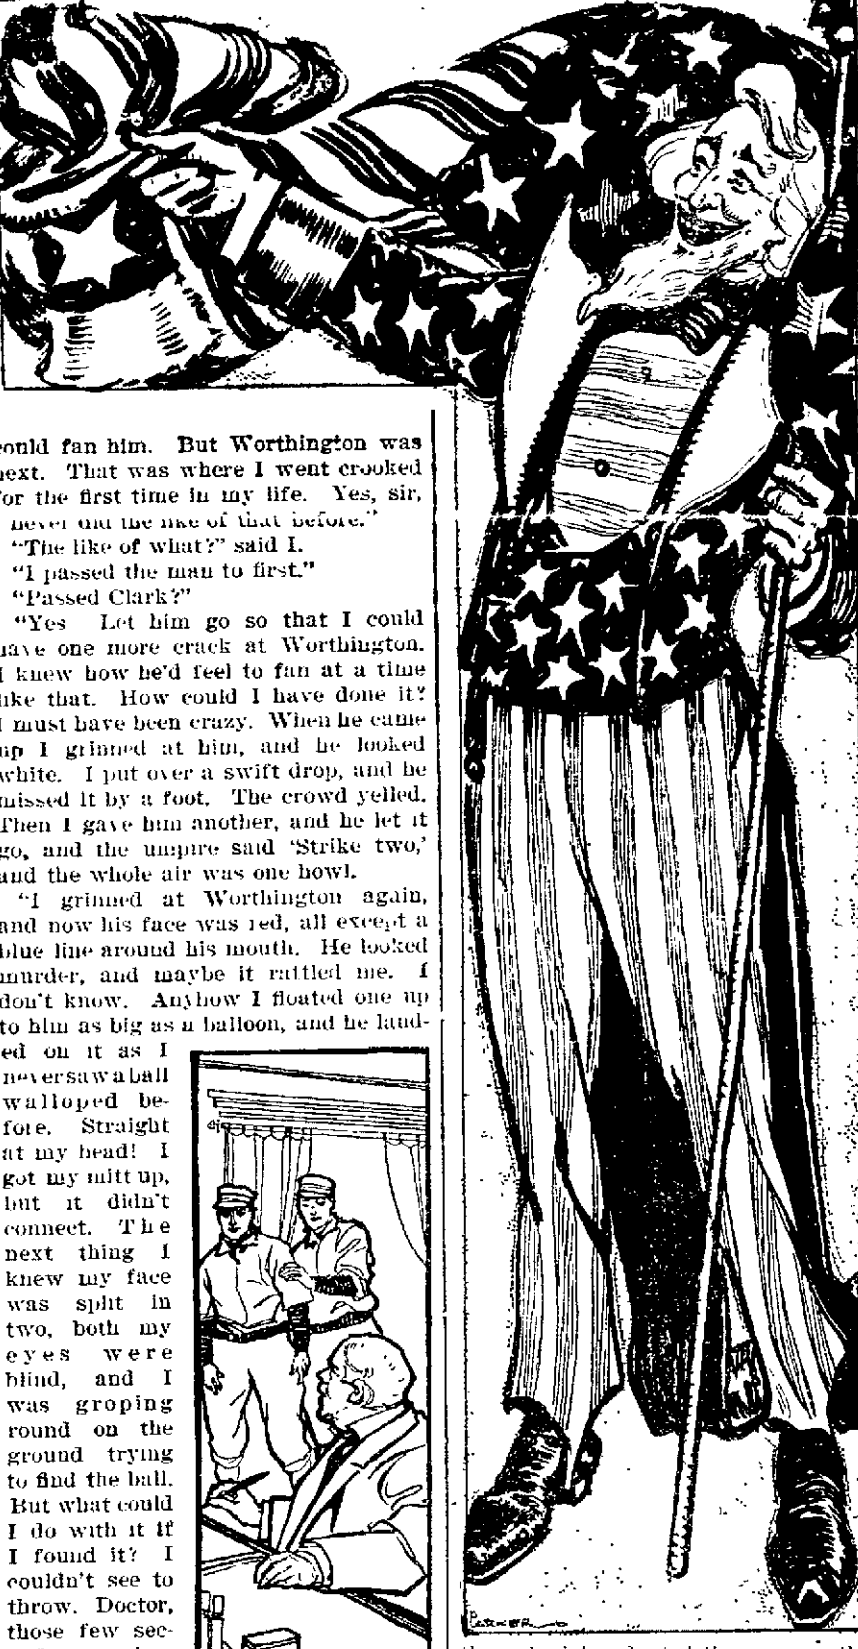

"Oh, I had a mean, yellow job in making a monkey of that man Worthington right there, with everybody looking on, and when I say 'everybody' I guess you understand what I'm talking about. You see, she knows the game. She keeps a full score, with every play down, and to think of her chalking up strike outs against Worthington was a low, miserable pleasure to me.

"Well, it came along to the ninth inning, and the score was 3 to 1 in our favor. It looked like a pipe, and the stars and stripes were waving pretty high. Everybody in the grand stand had a flag of one kind or another; never saw so many flags in my life. She had one. I could see her waving it every time I looked up.

"Their first man up in that ninth inning struck out on three pitched balls, and the crowd went crazy. Somebody out in the field let off about a million giant crackers, and you couldn't hear yourself think. The next man up laid the ball right down in front of the plate. Bert Winslow stepped ahead and grabbed it and threw it clear out where the cannon crackers were. The runner made third, and the Kingston rooters yelled themselves hoarse.

"It gave me a bit of a scare to see Bert make such a yellow error after the great game that he'd caught, and I settled right down and put the next man out of business. So there were two out, a man on third, and two runs to tie. It looked like fruit.

"The next man up was a fellow named Clark, the weakest better on the team. He hadn't touched the ball all the afternoon. It was a pipe that I

The Origin of "Yankee Doodle"

A Fourth of July Sketch

WHILE "The Star Spangled Banner" is the United States government's official hymn to the strains of which the flag is raised and lowered on forts and men-of-war, and "America" is the tune most favored by the patriotic populace, "Yankee Doodle" seems to best typify the "spirit of 1776."

It has long been asserted that "Yankee Doodle" was derived from a military march played by a militia band during the Revolutionary war. In a recent German publication Johann Lewalter expresses the opinion that it was originally a country dance of a district of Kur-Hesse called the "Schwalm." In studying the dances of the "Schwalm" Lewalter was struck by the similarity in form and rhythm of "Yankee Doodle" to the music of these dances. At the turn-of-last year in the village of Wassenberg, when the band struck up "Yankee Doodle" the young men and girls swung into a true "Schwalm" dance, as if the music had been composed for it.

During the War of Independence the chief recruiting office for the enlistment of Hessian mercenaries was at Ziegenhain in Kur-Hesse. It seems probable, therefore, that soldiers from the "Schwalm" who fought under the banner of King George brought with them to America the tune of their childhood and played it as a march. The derivative words set to the air were no doubt added by some British wit whose joke was turned upon him when

IMPOSED ON THE CHARITABLE

TWO BEGGARS IN DISGUISE OF NUNS ARE ARRESTED IN GOTHAM.

Said to 'Have Been Obtaining Money Under False Pretenses for Two Years.

New York, July 3.—Two women garbed as nuns were arraigned in the Morrisania Police court on the charge of obtaining money under false pretenses may form only a small proportion of a fraudulent sisterhood which for the last two years has been imposing upon the charitable in this city.

"From investigations which have been made in the last few months," said James Forbes, chief mendicancy officer of the Charity Organization Society, "I am led to believe that at least one hundred women beggars are making the rounds of New York disguised as members of religious orders."

Those now in custody, it is alleged by their accusers, have been obtaining money under false pretenses for nearly two years, in which time they have collected about $4,000 in cash and have obtained supplies from tradesmen which have enabled them to live in comparative luxury. They represented they were organizing an orphan's home.

Mr. Van Zandt, an agent of the society, was descending from an elevated station in the Bronx 10 days ago when he saw the two women, whose dress was of the same design as that of the community broken up by the society. He noticed that the younger had French heels on her shoes, a circumstance he could not reconcile with her attire. The older of the two was nearly blind and was led by the younger. This also excited his suspicion, for the rules of the Roman Catholic church do not permit those who are physically deficient to be connected with religious orders.

Hugo Germain, alleged to be their brother, was arrested on a charge of vagrancy. The three occupied two small rooms, for which they paid $8 a month. One of the apartments was piled high with boxes filled with staple groceries, which they had collected in their tours.

Account books found in the flat showed they had received contributions of $5 and $10 from prominent Italians, among whom is former Coroner Zucca.

Arraigned in the Morrisania Police court, the elder woman, who was 52, said she was Sister Marie Adele, and the younger described herself as Sister Marie Agnes. They said they belonged to the Society of La Adolorata, of Naples.

Dr. Ferrante, who was a witness, told Magistrate Cornell that the statement was absolutely false, and that a month ago he had heard of the woman and had sent word to them to leave the country.

BISHOP WOULD SETTLE STRIKESECRETARY OF BOARD OF ARBI-TRATION IS HERE AGAIN
TODAY.Everything Quieter Around the Wehrle Work Today—All the Hands Are
All Paid Off.Secretary Joseph Bishop of the State Board of Arbitration was in Newark today for the purpose of making inquiry into the strike at the Wehrle foundry. He is here to see if there is any possible chance to effect a settlement. Everything is quiet at the plant.The factory employees were paid this morning and no department of the foundry is running. Mr. Wehrle was communicated with this afternoon and stated to the Advocate that everything was quiet about the factory.
There has been no disorder since the factory closed last Friday. Mr. Wehrle stated that nothing further could be said regarding the probable time when the plant would resume.Regarding the statement that inadequate police protection was furnished by the city authorities, they explain that it was impossible for the police to furnish the protection demanded by the factory management.
Officers were taken from their regular beats and sent to the foundry. There was no disorder in the foundry. It would have taken several hundred men to patrol every street where disorder was likely to occur.The disorder or violence during the strike was not in the ranks of the striking buffers and polishes. In many cases it was among the men not employed at the factory, and who were called "sympathizers." In other cases it was the transient people who stopped in West Newark saloons and engaged in encounters with those who claimed to be strike sympathizers.The city officials state that there has been no more than usual disorder resulting from the strike.Mayor Crilly stated today that he had disposed of more cases of disorder from the vicinity of several other big factory districts of the city than have been reported from the neighborhood of the Wehrle factory since the strike began.A Hungarian was attacked by a party of thugs on the B. & O. bridge in badly beaten. It was thought that the man was dead and a call was sent for

ANOTHER ROAD

To Make Newark a Great Interurban Center—Right of Way Nearly Completed.

The right of way for the new Newark, Martinsburg and Mt. Vernon electric road has been secured in the city as far as First and Church streets.

When this new road is completed it will be one more important step in the making of Newark a great interurban center, in fact, one of the most important in the state. With the present outlook in this connection, for the city, it seems that with proper encouragement on the part of our citizens and with effort on the part of the promoters, Newark should be easily in the lead as a center of electric roads. We now have about one hundred miles of direct interurban connection, and with the Newark, Martinsburg and Mt. Vernon road, and our possibilities of connection with Johnstown, and Lancaster, the outlook is certainly bright. The interurban road proposition means much more to Newark than is realized at first. It means that more large manufacturing concerns will locate here. It means that Newark will get the greater part of the trade from the towns, villages and adjacent country, included in the respective lines. Visitors passing through the city will be attracted by its business air, and all kinds of trade will be materially benefited. All that the new proposition depends upon now is the local right of way. If secured, the Advocate is informed, the work of construction will be commenced at once. The eastern capitalists who are backing the project, seem pleased with the outlook so far, and it is hoped that they will meet with the proper encouragement by Newark citizens and business interests.

TWO FIREMEN DEAD AND FOUR INJURED

Birmingham, Ala., July 3.—Two firemen dead, four others injured, and a property loss of $150,000 were the results of a fire in the wholesale district today. Falling walls caused the death and injury.

The chief losers are: Collins & Co., wholesale grocers; Birmingham Paper Co.; Parks & Johnson, merchandise brokers; Tyler Grocery Co.; T. H. Spence, Joseph Hardie and T. S. McDonald, the last three owners of the buildings. The fire raged four hours.

Wreck of the 19th Century Limited on the L. & N. R. R. or, O., will cost more than $1,000,000.

BLACK FINED

For Several Things Which He Said He Would Do, But Did Not Accomplish.

W. C. Black, a resident of the North End, got the worst end of an encounter which he launched Saturday night on John street. The rumper was the result of Black having imbibed too much liquor and coming to his home in an ugly mood. He aroused the neighbors on John street by his unwarranted profanity. He informed his brother-in-law, whose name is Barr, that he could whip him. This statement was evidently made for the benefit of the populace and his language was not carefully chosen.

Barr became tired of Black's repeated annoyances and finally landed on the man's eye with a "straight from the shoulder" blow. This was followed in quick succession with several well directed punches and Black was down and out. When the police arrived his left eye was swollen entirely shut and he was in a very peaceful mood. The neighbors report that the man has been abusing his wife shamefully for some time. He pleaded guilty to the charges of drunk and fighting, which that officer placed against his name on the state. He was fined $5 and costs on the first charge and $10 and costs on the second charge. He was sent back to the stone pile to ponder over making threats against a man he couldn't whip.

The A. L. Norton company has just completed a deal by which it comes into possession of the entire stock of wall paper formerly owned by Beaumont & Southard, West Main street. This stock will be moved to their book store, Union block, and placed on sale at once at a quick selling price. 3d&swit

And Hanged Himself, But Lived Hours After Being Cut Down.

Washington, Ind., July 3.—Despondent because he became totally blind a few months ago Benson Steels, of this city, hanged himself in a coal house at the rear of his residence. He was discovered and cut down by John Watson, a neighbor. He lived for six hours, but never regained consciousness. He was 45 years old.

MAN'S LIFE WAS SOUGHT BY MOB

ALBERT NEEDLAND PURSUES LITTLE GIRL AND ANGRY WOMEN ORGANIZE.

To Punish the Alleged Kidnap—Needland Rescued by Police and is Fined by Mayor.

The residents in the vicinity of Railroad street were greatly wrought up Saturday night by the unusual actions of Albert Needland, aged 56 years, an artist who claims to hail from St. Louis.

He was in the hand of an angry mob of women and narrowly escaped being roughly handled and thereby hangs the tale.

It was about 8 o'clock when the officers received a call to the Pennsylvania depot where Needland was being held by one of the railroad officers. When this officer took the man into custody they were surrounding the man, declaring their intention to lynch him.

It seems that Needland aroused their anger by chasing the nine-year-old daughter of Samuel Swick, a resident of Railroad street. The little girl was playing on the street with other children when Needland tried to catch the little girl. She ran screaming into a nearby alley, closely pursued by Needland. Meantime the women in the neighborhood were aroused and joined the chase but their energies were bent on capturing Needland. The latter abandoned his chase and sought to make good his own safety.

He was soon surrounded and it was with difficulty that he was rescued by the officers. Chief of Police Sheridan and Captain Bell made a hurried trip to the scene of the excitement and took the man to the Swick house to have him identified by the little girl. When the trio entered the house, the little girl was still suffering from the effects of her terrible fright and upon seeing Needland she ran to her mother, screaming and sobbing.

The man was lodged at the city prison on a charge of pursuing the little girl. To Mayor Crilly in police court Monday morning, Needland stated that he had a young daughter in Newark who has been living with May Miller on Railroad street and that it was his intention to take her with him when he left the city. He claimed that he thought the Swick girl was his daughter. His explanation counted for naught, however, and the Mayor fined him $25 and costs. He paid the amount and was released.

PASTOR CALLED

To Fifth Street Baptist Church—New Man Will Probably Accept the Call.

The congregation of the Fifth Street Baptist church has extended a unanimous call to Rev. Joseph A. Bennett, a prominent Baptist minister of Philadelphia, Pa. This action was taken at the church services Sunday. Rev. Mr. Bennett occupied the pulpit at the Fifth street church several weeks ago and delivered a strong sermon. He is regarded as one of the best speakers ever occupying the pulpit there. Mr. Bennett has only recently resigned his Philadelphia pastorate and is therefore free to accept the call here within two months at the latest. He is now engaged in delivering Sunday addresses from the pulpits of several eastern churches and his engagements are arranged until September 1. An effort is being made to have him report for his work here sooner than the above date.

The new pastor has a family, which, in case he accepts this call, he will remove to this city.

By the terms of the will of General Lew Wallace all of this author's property, both real and personal, is left to his widow without condition. The will is very short, containing only four sentences. General Wallace left a considerable estate and Mrs. Wallace will have not only the revenues from this, but she will also in future be entitled to the royalties from the sale of his books, which amount to a good deal in the course of a year.

AGAINST FIVE CORPORATIONS

INDICTMENTS WERE RETURNED BY FEDERAL GRAND JURY IN CHICAGO.

Indicted Packers May Attempt to Defeat Ends of Justice by an Injunction.

Chicago, July 3.—After an investigation which has lasted over three months, and during which more than 100 witnesses were examined, the federal grand jury handed in its report. Seventeen men prominent in the packing industries of the country were indicted for violation of the Sherman anti-trust law and four officials of the Schwarzschild & Sulzberger company were indicted for alleged illegal rebating to the railroads. Besides individual indictments, bills were voted against five corporations—Armour & Company, Swift & Company, Nelson Morris & Company, Cudahy Packing company and the Fairbank Canning company. The individual indictments are against certain officials and attorneys of the above named firms.

Chicago, July 3.—Efforts are to be made by the packers indicted by the federal grand jury to defeat the government's aim through injunction proceedings. The packers have authorized their special counsel, John S. Miller, to file their petition for an injunction at his discretion in the United States court. Attorney Miller said: "My clients will ask for an injunction against prosecution under the indictments on the grounds that where a plaintiff goes into a court of equity seeking an injunction and obtains it, the same plaintiff can not institute criminal proceedings against the defendant. The packing firms are now under an injunction made permanent by Judge Grosscup in the circuit court. If they have violated that injunction they ought to be cited for contempt before that tribunal, instead of being indicted in the United States district court."

WHEN THE ERIE FLYER STOPPED

Poor Polly Wanted to Know What All the Fuss Was About.

New York, July 3.—Engineer Raftery, while taking his train down Red Ant hill, near Suffern, N. Y., yesterday spied on the track before him a small, brightly colored object. Although the train was going at a high rate of speed the engineer put on the brakes and stopped it within a short distance of what proved to be a voluble parrot.

Polly never moved a feather, but seemed highly delighted at the commotion she caused. Cocking her head to one side she shrilly called out:

"What's all this d—n fuss about?" and before she could be caught flew off to a neighboring tree. By this time many of the passengers had come up to inquire the cause of the stoppage.

One man started to climb the tree but desisted when Conductor Howe said there was not time for parrot butting on the Erie road. So it was the train lost a little time. Subsequently the parrot flew to the house of Christopher Peterson and was captured.

Granville Lawn Fete.

The lawn fete which was given on the lawn of the M. E. church Saturday evening, June 17, was not given by the ladies of the church. And it was not given as a farewell to Rev. Mr. Lathrop, as was sent for publication. Neither the preacher or his wife were present. The lawn fete was given by the Junior League for the purpose of raising money toward educating a little native in India.

There were no strawberries on the bill of fare. But there was ice cream and cake at 10c. We Juniors think everybody had a fine time, and the Junior League wants credit for what they do, and they deserve it.
